

KRUGER PACKAGING E'TOWN SOARS TO NEW HEIGHTS

Kruger Packaging team members and Elizabethtown Mayor Jeff Gregory were on hand recently to see the “roof topping” of the Kruger Packaging E'town Plant by helicopter. The exciting development comes on the heels of major progress occurring inside and outside the cutting-edge facility located on North Black Branch Road.

“It was exciting to see the helicopter lift the air exchange and heating units onto the roof,” John Keith, Kruger Packaging E'town General Manager, said. “All total, 33 units were hoisted, which is an amazing milestone because it really pulls everything together now.”

“Kruger Packaging has come in and really made a stir in Elizabethtown,” Mayor Jeff Gregory added. “They have done that by being very professional, keeping the community updated on their progress and providing jobs that people are very proud to have.”

MEET THE TEAM: OBRIEN HENLEY

Superintendent OBrien “OB” Henley has over 14 years of experience in the packaging industry, working in a variety of positions from wet end operator to dry end operator. Kruger Packaging E'town is excited to have OB on the team.

OFF TO THE RACES

During Kentucky Derby 148, Kruger Packaging team members met with Governor Andy Beshear and Congressman Andy Barr (R-Lexington), center, to provide an update on the E'town plant's construction.

COMMUNITY SPOTLIGHT

LG&E and KU Energy representatives presented Kruger Packaging and the Elizabethtown Hardin County Industrial Foundation a $50,000 ceremonial check for ongoing site-readiness efforts.

Supporting Kentucky Agriculture

Kruger Packaging E'town is proud to support a number of industries across the Commonwealth, including the state's thriving AgriTech initiative. Through the production of high-quality, sustainable corrugated boxes, we are helping food and beverage companies ensure their products arrive safely to your door, at restaurants or in grocery stores. As a result of the Opportunity KY Grant, Kruger Packaging will be able to serve more businesses, support even more jobs and 'unbox' unlimited opportunities for the Bluegrass State.

OUT-OF-THE-BOX PARTNERSHIPS

Building Better Boxes for Your Business

A fourth-generation family owned and operated company, Kruger Packaging has been helping businesses of all sizes build better boxes.

Kruger Packaging E'town will do just that for even more companies in the Commonwealth and across the country. When complete, the facility will be the most advanced U.S. packaging plant, utilizing robotic and automated technology. Moreover, E'town, Kentucky is an ideal location near major consumer markets and provides ample room for expansion and future growth opportunities to serve our clients' needs.
